

M. E. Aid Society.
The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Methodist Episcopal Church was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. E. Engle in Lincoln avenue. The attendance was good and the meeting was one of the best held for some time. During the business session it was decided to turn over to the building committee $500 for the new church fund. The society bought an electric sweater for the parsonage. The members also decided to begin the new year by giving a Christmas dinner to the poor. The following committee being appointed: Mrs. W. R. Clapper, Mrs. W. P. Clark, Mrs. J. B. Michael, Mrs. N. S. Swartzwelder, Mrs. H. H. Campbell, Mrs. J. B. Henry, Mrs. J. N. Volting, Mrs. A. D. Glatfelter, and Mrs. Elmer Snyder. A social hour and refreshments followed the business meeting.

Will Attend Convention.
Mrs. Blanche Rice, regent of the Philip Freeman Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution will leave tomorrow morning for Washington to attend the national convention of the Daughters of American Revolution which convenes Monday in the Memorial Continental Hall. The convention will continue throughout the week.

Young People Meet.
An interesting meeting of the Young People's Class of the Church of the Brethren was held last night at the home of Rev. Mrs. J. A. Buehner in West street. Fifteen members and several guests were present. A social hour and refreshments followed the business meeting.

C. D. of A.
Many members were in attendance at the regular meeting of the Catholic Daughters of America held last night in the Parochial School Hall. Plans were discussed for a social meeting for members to be held Thursday evening, April 21 in observance of the ninth anniversary of the death of St. John the Baptist. Mrs. George Snyder and Mrs. M. H. Pryce as chairmen, will have charge.

To Study in Paris.
Mrs. L. H. Wagner of the Somerset Lutheran Church parsonage has been notified of her selection as one of the 120 American people who have been admitted to membership in the Fontainebleau Conservatory of Music, near Paris, France. Mrs. Wagner will sail for France in June to take up her studies in the French institution. She will be enrolled for three-month course. Mrs. Wagner has been a resident of Somerset for the last 16 years. Her husband having died in the local Lutheran congregation as its pastor during that period. Mrs. Wagner conducts a large class in music and is leader of the church choir and several other musical organizations in this section.

Lutheran Women Meet.
An unusually large and interesting meeting of the Women's Lutheran Society of the Trinity Lutheran Church was held last evening in the church hall. About seventy-five members and guests were present. Mrs. W. H. Hetrick had charge of the mission study, the topic of which was "Christian Heroes in Japan." Several interesting articles on the subject were read by members. Reports were given from the eight mission classes which during the past six weeks held meetings each week. The membership of all the classes was 19. Missionary boxes valued $76.55, which will be used toward building a girls' school in Kumamoto, Japan. Mrs. J. W. Phelps, Mrs. John A. Guller, Mrs. S. M. Sheets, Mrs. M. J. Ream and Mrs. L. M. Reynolds were elected delegates to the spring convention to be held at Penn Station on April 24. At the close of the business meeting a delightful social hour was held and refreshments were served by the following committee: Mrs. John A. Guller, chairman, Mrs. Edward Gross, Mrs. Earl Henderson, Mrs. William Storey and Mrs. Lavinia Guthrie.

G. A. R. Circle.
Business of a routine nature was transacted at the regular meeting of the Ladies' Circle No. 100 to the William P. Kurtz Post No. 104, Grand Army of the Republic, held yesterday afternoon in Odd Fellows' Hall. The application made by Mrs. Catherine Smith of Charleroi, for membership, was voted on.

Delightful Playlet.
An appreciative audience witnessed and enjoyed a delightful playlet, "Clady's Chance," presented last night in the chapel of the First Presbyterian Church by the Ruth Circle of the Westminster Guild. There were four scenes, the first and second taking place in Clady's home, the third, a neighbor's home and the fourth, a school room. The play was ably presented by the following cast: "Clady," Miss Dorothy Dull; "Grandpa," Miss Edith Frank; "Sally Ann," Miss Ruth Brown; "Sally," Miss Louise May; "Mollie," Miss Evelyn Phillips; "Ma," Miss Hazel Springer; "Jane," Miss Hazel Horwick; "Sara," "Katie" and "Mary," and the daughters, Misses Dorothy Anderson, Margaret Scrabble and Sara Bloom. Miss Elizabeth Koney was the teacher and Miss Edith Brown, "Miss Rose" a visitor.

C. E. Society Meets.
The monthly business and social meeting of the Senior Christian Endeavor Society of the First Methodist Protestant Church was held last night in attendance. The annual state convention to be held in Pittsburgh in July was discussed and the election of a delegate was postponed until a later date. The society gave $25 toward the home missionary offering for Easter. The county Christian Endeavor convention which will be held in the local church in June was also discussed. At the close of the business meeting a very enjoyable social session was held. Refreshments were served.

Mozart Club.
The Mozart Club, meeting last evening at the home of Mrs. Pasquale Gigliotti in the South Windsor Apartments, arranged tentatively to have the United States Music Club appear here in a free concert during Music Week, which begins May 1. The date will depend on whether the club can come at that time. The place will probably be the Christian Church. The club has been invited to the Monday Musical Club of Scotland for the recent concert and asked Mrs. Louis Stralove, a member of both clubs, to convey them to the Scottish musicians. Miss Leona Morey and E. C. Gardner were elected members of the club. Taking part on the musical program of the evening were: Robert L. Warner, tenor solo; Mrs. Clarence McCormick and Miss Pearl Keck, soprano-alto duet; Herbert Duggan, baritone solo; Miss Elizabeth Stevens, mezzo solo; Mrs. McCormick, Miss Keck, Mr. Warner, Mr. Duggan, quartet number. Miss Keck and Carl T. Anstetter were accompanists. After the regular program Mrs. Gigliotti contributed a piano number, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Hirst will entertain the club at the next meeting.

J. H. T. Club.
The J. H. T. Club was entertained last evening at the home of Elsie Blicher in Hobbes street, with fifteen members in attendance. The club devoted the evening to fancywork and music. It voted to give $11.50 to the fund for the relief of the family of the late Freeman Whipkey of Springfield township. Lunch was served. The next meeting will be at the home of Miss Anna Veltz at Snydertown.

Girls' Form Club.
Ten girls met last night at the home of Miss Florence and Neil Blair at Wheeler and formed a club to be known as the S. B. Y. U. Club. Officers were elected as follows: President, Miss Nell Blair; vice-president, Miss Florence Blair; secretary, Leona Brant; treasurer, Miss Josephine Ritchey. The club plans to hold many social functions. The first meeting of the evening, followed by delicious refreshments. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Leona Ernesto, 508 Jefferson street.

Eighty-Fifth Anniversary.
Mr. and Mrs. John Burrell of Greensburg entertained recently at a 6 o'clock dinner in honor of the former's mother, Mrs. John Burrell of Staibstown, who is 85 years old. Mrs. Burrell is the daughter of the late John Burrell, a daughter of the honored guest, was among those present.

Married at Los Angeles.
Announcement has been received at Greensburg of the marriage at Los Angeles, Cal., of Miss Mary Morrison daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morrison Barclay of Greensburg, to James E. Walsh, son of Mrs. James E. Walsh of Los Angeles. The bride is a Senior Hill graduate, the groom of the University of Wisconsin. They will reside at Los Angeles.

Reformed Guild Meets.
The Ladies Guild of Trinity Reformed Church met last night at the home of Mrs. George Rudolph in Wine street with nine members and three visitors present. A number of articles of fancywork were received for the bazaar.

Transported Liquor, Charge.
Paolo Pannuel, 635 Highland avenue, was arrested yesterday on a charge of illegally transporting liquor. He was fined $100, with the alternative of spending 90 days in the county jail, when given a hearing in police court this morning. The fine had not been paid at noon.

Son Is Born.
Congratulations are being received over the birth of a boy to Mr. and Mrs. William Grammatico of Pittsburgh. Mrs. Grammatico was formerly Miss Margaret Carotti of this city.

Women to attract must Radiate Health!

BEAUTY is the magnet which draws all eyes—and back of beauty—Health—working steadily—Red blood circulating through the veins—the glow of youthfulness, of vim, of vitality in the walk—the ever graceful air, unrestrained by care or worry—the charm of beauty. All the women of health.

Men are fascinated by the charms of beauty. Women gaze with envy at the radiant beauty of the women who are so attractive. But why the wonder?—the hope that they may be so attractive?—that beauty. Good looks is the magnet of success in life. Good health radiates beauty. S. S. S. purifies the blood—creates new red blood cells—rids the system of impurities which make beauty and health impossible. As women to attract must radiate health so must they keep their systems free from impurities and their red blood cells ever increasing. S. S. S. does both.

Men, since 1828, have been riding the system of impurities—phlegm, blackheads, boils, eczema, and piles, blotches, and blemishes, and have been building red blood cells—aiding women to be attractive by radiating health. S. S. S. is made of carefully selected herbs and barks, scientifically prepared and proportioned. All good drug stores carry S. S. S. It is more economical to purchase the large size bottle.

SAFETY OF SHIPS UP TO U. S. AGENCY

Work of Coast and Geodetic Survey Outlined

"The recent groundings of the world's two biggest ocean liners, the Leviathan and the Majestic, show how essential to the safety of the world's shipping is an intimate knowledge of the complicated tidal and current fluctuations of the world's great harbors," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society, issued from its Washington (D. C.) headquarters. "And emphasizes the importance of one of the phases of the work of the United States coast and geodetic survey."

"New York harbor is not a single waterway, but a series of communicating ones, with two entrances from the sea. A territory larger than Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island together, drains into the Atlantic through three bays, four straits, and one great and several small tidal rivers. The fresh water from this large area complicates the problem of giving the navigator definite data as to flood and ebb and current so that he may safely maneuver his craft at all times."

Aids Navigation and Sewage.
"The United States coast and geodetic survey has given navigators a definite picture of the conditions they must meet in both the great harbors and the smaller ones. The information necessary to the proper arrangement of docking facilities, and to sanitary engineers new and basic data that has an important bearing on the problem of sewage disposal."

"Working quietly on the great fundamental problems of navigation, the coast and geodetic survey doesn't make much copy, and the world at large knows comparatively little of one of the most highly technical of the scientific bureaus of the United States government."

"And yet every ship that sails the seas, every passenger that comes into port, every article on the supercargo's manifest are served in a very concrete, it is unsuspected, way by the survey."

"Two things the navigator must have if he is to bring his craft with its human and material cargo safely into port—a knowledge of the tricks of the compass and a picture of channel and harbor conditions."

Vagaries of a Compass Needle.

"The needle of the mariner's compass has been shown to be as full of vagaries as mid-March weather. Men used to think that it could always be depended upon to point to the magnetic pole. But local influences distract it from its proper affection in ways that are sometimes startling. If the sailor has a compass in every part, the magnetic needle has secondary attraction in many quarters. Looking at a magnetic declination chart we see deeply waved curves which prove in loudly the influence of these influences in varying the needle away from the 'straight and narrow' of its true direction. Magnetic surveys on the sea in general and along the coast in particular, are a supposition necessary in the accurate guidance of ships over the trackless ocean and into the world's ports."

"Examining the line of the 15 degree west declination we find it sweeping over the sea in a northwesterly direction, with comparatively small variations from normality until it approaches the north shore of Massachusetts. There it swings suddenly to the west, and as land is reached it swings back until it points almost due northeast at more than a right angle to its recent position as it rounds the Cape Ann peninsula."

Goes on 'Speed' in New York.
"The same condition obtains in the 10 degree west declination which sweeps over the Atlantic toward New York. Approaching the waters between Long Island and Sandy Hook the needle adheres closely to its proper direction. But when it reaches the Hudson river it is pulled around until it seems to forget all about its fundamental affection and goes on a tack that causes it to swing around through almost or quite a quarter circle from its accustomed position."

"No wonder a magnetic survey is needed to warn the mariner of the vagaries of the magnetic needle when it permits itself to fall so fully under the spell of the Great White way that it wanders 90 degrees away from its path of solar duty."

"The need of more thorough soundings in harbors and on rocky coasts grows greater as the volume and complexity of shipping grows and the size of craft increases."

"Soundings made with lead lines can be depended on to discover the main underwater elevations, but the waters of the New England shores, the Pacific shores and Alaska abound in shallow rocks—Washington monuments of the sea. They rise to sharp points nearest to the surface, which deflect a lead line, even though the lead may, on a slender chain, limit on top of them."

"Thus it comes to be that their presence undiscovered and uncharted until some ship chanced to run aground of one of them, as the U. S. cutter Brooklyn did in the harbor of New Bedford, Mass."

How Wire Drag Is Used.
"Latterly a wire drag has been evolved. It is stretched between two launches or other boats which run parallel to one another anywhere from 150 to 25,000 feet apart."

"The lower wire sweeps through the water at a depth well below the keels of ships of the deepest drafts and any obstacle that rises above that depth is readily detected. A shuffling of immense volume moves through the pinnacles and boulder-infested entries of the New England coast and the survey is working aggressively with the limited funds at its disposal to finish its sweeping of these waters and to discover all such obstructions to navigation before they register their presence by tearing holes into the hulls of hapless liners."

"Mud banks and sand bars must also be watched carefully; for the unexpected attack by winds, waves, and currents upon the shore cause particushanty in stormy weather, the water to be converted into a sort of hurricane in which the material wrecked loose from its position is ground to sand and deposited elsewhere, filling up channels and obstructing navigation generally.

"Automatic" and motor-boats have made heavy weather on the shores with the loss of life and property, and now knowledge of the laws of such shore evolution must be mastered and remedies found for conditions of erosion that menace life and property in the hostile communities.

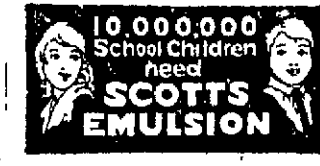

"And so it happens that the coast and geodetic survey under the direction of Col. B. Lester Jones must ever be on the alert to protect shipping from the perils of demoralized man-

Klansmen Refused Bail in Riot Case

By United Press.
BRENSBURG, April 10.—Denying an application for a writ of habeas corpus, Judge John A. Evans last night ordered 25 men, said to be members of the Ku Klux Klan, held without bail for the June term of criminal court upon charges of murder and riot in connection with the fatal disorder at Lilly Saturday between townspeople and visiting Klansmen. Judge Evans declared that in the opinion of the court it was unlawful in Pennsylvania for a body of men to assemble when dressed in gowns and mask. Such demonstrations, he said, tend to put people in fear, and that it was unlawful in this state to stage any demonstration having that effect. The court declared that any person who participated was liable for any act of violence committed by anyone in the crowd.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

A Musical Club

One Mother Says: To keep our high school age children content to find entertainment at home, another mother and I organized a little Friday evening musical club among boys and girls in our own neighborhood, the group meeting at one of our homes and bringing what instruments were available. Enough talent was discovered to form a small orchestra. At the close of the evening light refreshments were served and impromptu dancing followed. Those who could not play were glad to drop in to gather around the piano and sing and to enjoy the dancing. This club flourished for several years and was a wholesome factor in the neighborhood.

OUR TRIBUTE TO MRS. E. G. WHITMORE

Mrs. Ernest G. Whitmore, whose death was noted in The Courier Thursday was a believer in the newspaper as an agency of publicity. For a long time before her fatal illness had its onset it was the regular practice of Mrs. Whitmore to telephone the Courier of news of a club of which she was a member—the Ennon. Its meetings she reported without fail, and not only did she call in advance with news of time and place of its meetings but she made it a point, always, to acquaint the paper with what transpired at them. She was of the type that a newspaper force delights to have fall.

Student Players Rehearse Daily For Operetta

Rehearsals are being held daily at the High School in preparation for the annual operetta, "Peggy," which will be presented on Friday and Saturday, April 25 and 26. The students of the school are members of the operetta. The play, given each year, is an important part of the school's activities. It is charged by tickets and is supplied to parents of the performers, and the public is permitted to sit in the auditorium. It is being rehearsed under the direction of Carl T. Anstine, musical instructor in the school, assisted by other teachers in the dramatic parts. Elaborate costumes are used and there are a number of large, well-dressed choruses.

Clogged-Up? Here's Quick Aid

NEVER mind what you are using now for constipation. For all you know there is a better remedy! The next time you are clogged up try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a laxative successfully used for 30 years, the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. Mrs. John A. Gains of Buttrickville, Ind., constipated all her life, her stomach injured from years of pill taking, is now functioning daily after taking Syrup Pepsin and Mr. David O'Connor of Canton, Ohio, suffering steadily for three years, got relief after a few doses. The list of successful users of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is naturally large as over 10 million bottles are sold annually.

Formula on Every Package
Get yourself a bottle at a drug store, the cost being less than a cent a dose. Take a spoonful at bedtime for a few nights and we guarantee that the most chronic constipation will be relieved, or refund your money. A few doses in succession soon train the stomach muscles to act for themselves. Many, however, take it once a week and in that way keep the bowels regularly open. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, unlike harsh physics such as calomel, "sandy cathartics," salt waters and powders, is a simple vegetable laxative composed of Egyptian senna and pepsin with tasty aromatics which are entirely harmless.

This Remedy Guaranteed

It has been accurately proven that a constipated person is only 75 percent efficient. It shows you up! makes you dull and lazy. Take Syrup Pepsin the first day you do not have complete bowel movement. That is, guaranteed for constipation, hard liver, dyspepsia, indigestion, sour stomach, headache, lack of appetite. A powerful cathartic one, or possibly will kill a cold overnight. Half the ailments of winter start with constipation followed by a cold.

Get It Now! You Want to Try It Free Before Buying

Below: GEN. JAN C. SMUTS; SEN. J.W. HARRELL

Because President Coolidge ousted David W. Davis, a Harding appointee, and named Edward Head, of California, a radical politician as successor, to head the Reclamation Bureau in the Interior Department, many in Washington believed Dr. Hubert Work would resign as Secretary of the Interior. U. S. Senator John W. Harrell, Republican, of Oklahoma, testified before the Senate Committee investigating the Department of Justice that ex-Attorney-General Harry M. Daugherty's former law partner, John T. Ford, had been counsel for the Miller Interior suit, and that Ford had said was fraudulently held by the Miller Interior suit. The Cabinet of the Union of South Africa, headed by General Jan Christian Smuts, has resigned. The Supreme Court of the United States has ruled that Sergeant Roland P. Porter, indicted for the murder of Major P. Cronkite at Camp Lejeune, Wash., on October 25, 1918, must be returned to that State for trial. It is understood that Captain Robert Rosenblum, whose friends call him "The American Dreyfus," also must go on trial. Major Cronkite was killed during a pistol target shoot on a practice march, and the cause of death was reported as "accidental shooting." Porter is said later to have confessed he killed Major Cronkite at Captain Rosenblum's instigation, but later recanted the confession.

DOGS FEARED BY MOST BURGLARS

Canines Are Sometimes Poisoned by Thieves.

Dogs and burglars, if strangers, have a natural antipathy for each other. Most dog thieves are afraid of dogs, big or little, but they fear dogs more for their bark than their bite. A barking dog has proved the undoing of more than one night marauder by awakening a household and giving an alarm. Recently a thief was caught red-handed when he unknowingly ventured into an apartment in which a dog was on guard. Before the thief could make his escape by way of a stairway he was overtaken and captured. When questioned at the station house he remarked that he never had had any luck with dogs or babies. Both, he asserted, had made a lot of trouble for him at times.

Not the best of watchdogs have not always deterred thieves from entering a house. When robbers in Westchester and Long Island were investigated recently it was discovered that the thieves had made a careful survey of the premises before embarking on their undertaking. Their victims had felt more or less secure because they were protected by faithful watchdogs. On overlooking a householder would learn with surprise that while he slept his home had been entered, turned topsy-turvy and robbed of such valuables as could easily be carried away. He would be the more surprised since he had left the house in charge of Brutus or Rex, and he would blame the well-tried sentinel for sleeping on his post. Later he would learn that the faithful animal had been killed by poison.

Most thieves hold life cheaply, but not a few respect even the life of a dog and would rather forgo the prospect of booty than slay a dumb animal. But these thieves who played on country estates were of a particularly base and sordid type. If they observed that the place they had planned to rob was protected by a large, fierce dog, which challenged every one who passed its gates, they dropped a tempting morsel of meat in poison and threw it over the wall and that was pretty certain to silence the animal.

Kill Dogs With Poison.
These thieves learned that watchdogs in some instances were permitted to roam at will about the grounds of the estate and in other instances were left in the lower part of the house. After forcing doors in a short time whether the house harbored a dog or was left unguarded, if there was a dog, he was pretty sure to reveal his presence by a howl, whining growl, and that was a signal to toss him the poisoned bait. At any rate, when the householder awakened the following morning it would find the burglars had left a dead dog behind them.

Although a barking dog often affords better protection to a house than locks, bolts and pistons, some dogs which have survived these nocturnal raids have turned out to be the worst sort of watchdogs.

As a rule, the fiercest animals are to be found in lonely country districts. Farmers have the reputation of keeping watchdogs calculated to scare off the boldest intruders. Indeed, some of these animals are so fierce by nature that they are kept chained at the threshold of farmhouses during the daytime and not permitted to roam at large until nightfall. They are kept not so much as a protection against burglars as against tramps and other undesirable, who are liable to wander into farmhouses when the farmers are at work in distant fields and the women folk are alone.

It is the opinion of a veteran police lieutenant, who is something of a dog fancier, that the best kind of a dog for city folk to have for protection is a small dog with a bark bigger than that of a Great Dane—a small dog—the species is unimportant—which barks at the first approach of strangers of all kinds. The records of the police department show that in many cases these small animals have not only frightened away burglars but have been instrumental in apprehending them, and that the average burglar has the same feeling about a small dog as a woman has about a mouse.

Some years ago an Italian who made his home in a basement in Eastman's little Italy had as a pet a very fierce animal, a mongrel bulldog. The dog was so wild by nature that his master, when venturing out with him, which was seldom, hid to murder him and pistol him on a stout leash. No one dared approach the Italian's abode because of the ferocity of the animal. On one occasion when the Italian invited friends to call he was careful to keep the dog chained.

Dog and Master slain.
The Italian made some bitter enemies, and one day he was notified to be on the watch—that his enemies meant to take his life. After receiving the warning he kept the animal in the basement day and night, and his enemies did not dare molest him on account of the dog. One day he ventured out on an errand. When he returned his home he was slain before he had an opportunity to defend himself. The police on being notified understood at a glance what had happened, in the Italian's absence the assassins had visited the basement, broken a pane of glass in the window and administered poison to the animal. The rest had been easy.

Bootsack Uses a Palette

One of the bootsacks on the heels of the shoes of a Parisian when cleaning woman's shoes, says a Paris letter to the Baltimore Sun.

The Parisian woman's shoes vary so much in color that he found it often difficult to get the right line of bootsack to match.

So, in his palette, he puts a number of different creams and combines them in varying proportions according to the tone of the shoes he has to deal with.

Judging by the number of his woman customers his plan is successful.

Just Like a Husband

"My husband is the most stubborn man in the world."

"He can't be any more stubborn than mine."

"Oh, yes, I'm sure he must be. Yesterday I had an engagement to meet him at three o'clock."

"Yes."

"Well, it was nearly 4:30 when I got there, and he wouldn't admit yet that the rest he got while he was waiting did him any good."

First Woman Radiologist

Stear Godeliva, who is in charge of the X-ray department of St. John's hospital in Fargo, is the first woman to be registered as a radiologist in the state of North Dakota. She recently passed the examination required by the American Registry of Radiological Technicians in Omaha and is the first woman, it is thought, to be awarded such a certificate in this country.

Hound Loses Paw After Being Caught in Trap
Betty, a blue ribbon foxhound owned by James Wright of North Andover, Mass., will wear a cork leg for the remainder of her days. Her right forepaw was amputated by Dr. William H. Zimmerman, city veterinarian, to save the animal's life from blood poisoning, caused by being caught in a fox trap a few days ago.

For two days and nights, with temperature from 12 to 18 degrees below zero, Betty suffered in the trap, and when found the injured foot was frozen. Her father, Sport, lost his life two years ago while on the trail by falling into an abandoned cellar. When found 15 days later, he was dead.

Rats Tunnel Fairways of Potomac Park Links
Rats burrowing through the earth under the West Potomac park golf course at Washington have made serious depressions in the grassy fair ways that 1,000 cubic yards of soil were used in filling the holes, S. G. Loeffler, Jr., who is in charge of the course, said recently. Replacing of the turf has been necessitated in many places, especially near the Washington channel side of the course, he said.

It had been planned, Mr. Loeffler said, to reopen the course about the middle of this month, but extensive improvements and repairs will probably cause a delay.

For Easter Morn

For Easter, A New Bonnet

For a Maid and Her Mother

YOU will find it pleasant on Easter afternoon to look from your window and watch the parade of gay new hats that travel by. And if you have an invitation yourself you will be glad to have a fresh and smart new bonnet to put on. There is a becoming hat here to agree with your Easter costume. Straw cloches, turbans, tricorne and picture hats have tiny brushes of feather, large roses to trim them; often a single white flower against a dark background, or a Roman striped bow that takes an odd and clever angle.

$6.95, $12.50 Up to $25.00

Girl Types

THIS is a haven of hats that modern haired girls love to slip on. Many Milan hats have the same gay color, that which Spring has in its crown. Many have smart up-turned brims. Prices moderate.

Matron Modes

A NUMBER of hats have been set aside for the matron with lovely silvering hair. These have shapes that are unusual and enormously flattering. Newest straws in tasteful colorings.

Tubular and Highly Fashionable Blouses

An extensive selection of over-blouses fashioned of cotton crepe, satin, canton and crepe de chine. Chinese motifs, beads, and lace add distinctive touches. The tailored blouses are of crepe de chine, English broadcloth or dimity. With Peter Pan or Tuxedo collars. Monogrammed tabs are effectively used. Prices range from $3.50 to $16.75.

Tunic Overblouses

Printed crepe de chine and roshanara and floral, medallion and oriental patterns are the new notes in tunic blouses for Easter. Also others in plain shades and high collars of soft silks. Many have buttons of pearl, jet or silver and plaited jabots flowing from throat to hem, are seen on others. Price range, $7.95 to $16.75.

THE EASTER CORSET

All the new clothes in the world won't help you maintain a smart appearance if the corset beneath isn't exactly right.

Our expert corsetiers will see that it fits you as it should, that the straight lines of the mode are transferred to your figure. Also new brassieres that give the slender lines. Evening brassieres, exceedingly dainty, yet equally practical.

Gossard's Front Lace Corsets $3.50 to $12.75.

—Brassieres, 65c to $10.00.

American Lady, Gossard and Ringo Wrap-around Corsetettes, $1.75 to $5.00.

EASTER WEARABLES

For the Little Folks

EASTER day is bunny day to little folks, but more than that it is our day when they do take pride in having shiny shoes, pretty bonnets, new coats and dainty frocks. You will enjoy outfitting your small daughter for that event and for the rest of Spring, too. You may do it here now, and with economy.

COATS: Mother will do well to select little daughter's coat here. She will find many new styles, some boyish and some feminine, in fine fabrics, plaids, plaids and stripes, 2 to 6 years. Prices $6.50 to $12.75. 8 to 14 years, prices, $10.75 to $25.00.

Silk Dresses

Dainty little silk frocks of crisp, ruffled Taffeta, canton crepe, crepe de chine, in dark and delicate shades that make pretty little girls prettier. Sizes from 6 to 11 years. Price range $10.75 to $25.

White Dresses

Delicate dresses for little Miss 6 to 14 years, fashioned of white voiles, georgette crepe and crepe de chine, daintily trimmed with ruffles, lace, and ribbons. Price range from $3.50 up to $19.75.

Easter Frocks

SPRING is a joy if one has many Frocks. Women are finding this a delightful place to Easter shop, and you too will enjoy choosing Dresses from this collection not only for Easter, but for every conceivable Spring occasion.

A TOUCH of genius went into the creation of these bewitching Frocks, just the kind to shine at Easter festivities or the promenade. Surely the designer had in mind a picture of brilliant, black-haired loveliness as the wearer of a certain model in Chinese colors and design. And a blonde, rather demure young person is obviously intended to wear a crepe Elizabeth of pigtail blue.

MATERIALS — Canton Crepe, Printed Crepe, Jacquard, Roshanara, Tulle Crepe, Satin, Canton, Chenille, Georgette, French Crepe, Eucalypta, Crepe Elizabeth.

SHADES—Fleisch Blue, Panna, Navy, Brown, Turquoise, Yellow, Lavender, Green, French Blue, Peach, Hessian, Grey, Tan; also fashionable Black.

In regular and extra sizes 14 to 40. Extras, 40½ to 50½.

Price Range—$19.75 to $95.00

Costume Slips

Every Easter Wardrobe should have its fresh Lingerie and certainly include several Costume Slips since they do so much to give slenderness and trimness to new clothes. Scallop-ed hems and hemstitched shoulder straps make these dainty. In fine materials of Crepe de Chine, Roshan Silk and Satin. Colors, Flesh, Navy, Tan, Gray, also in white and black. Price range from $2.95 to $12.75.

Easter Hosiery

Colors count in hosiery for Easter and Spring. Sunburnt shades are good, gunmetal, pearl, gray and all shades of brown provide them complement your costume nicely. Here you'll find hosiery from the finest chiffon weight to the heaviest glove and thread silk, depending upon your preferences. Four attractive price groups—$1.65, $2.00, $2.65 and $3.25.

Scarfs, Kerchiefs, Ties, and Gardenias for "boy" suits are displayed near the entrance—(left side).

EASTER

A Time for Tiny Gifts.

EASTER is just another delightful time for gift-giving and there are many friends who would appreciate any one of the tokens told about below.

Easter Candles and Novelties.

To parents of good children. Downy little chicks, colored sandy eggs and insidious chocolate eggs, pretty baskets and toy bunnies are waiting to go home to your little son and daughter. A Satin Lined Pouch Bag with French steel beads would make an ideal gift for "her"—and the price is exceptional low, $3.95. Exclusive — Flannel Trousers Bonnets — would surely be an exclusive and appreciated gift—$3.75 the 27. And—Joyful Easter Cards—be in 25c—or a box of Stationery priced to suit, 50c to $8.50. A Pung-Chow set, $5 up to $20.00. And many others of which we will tell you in our ads next week. HOW—EASTER—why not call and look over the hundreds of lovely Easter gifts we have selected for your approval.

Easter Handbags

Here are small silk handbags to begin their stay with you on Easter day. Navy, brown and black ones too, are of moire to carry under the arm with the tailored suit. Wee ones of beads and larger ones of hand-tooled leather. Their linings, fittings and frames are excellent and the prices are unusually low for such workmanship. Prices range from 75c up to $50.00.

Easter Gloves

Hundreds and hundreds of gauntlet gloves—no two pairs seeming to be alike—are ready for Easter choosing. Cuffs are quite short and are detailed, tiered or embroidered. Black and white is especially good but there are a number of likable tan and grey shades in these French Kid Gloves at $3.25, $4.00 up to $5.00.

Easter Neckwear

No end of variety. A jabot of fine lace peeks out from the collection, a long panel collar, a gauntlet set in organdie and an Eton collar of linen. Prices the lowest, quality the highest.

HANDSOME WRAPS

Approved for Easter

SET out today and choose that new Wrap you have been thinking about. It is here, in our apparel section. You may find it in a high colored model three-quarter length, in a soft Wrap of black trimmed in white summer fur, in a topcoat or in a slim coat of the new ribbed silk. Think of awakening on Easter morning to the thought of one of these ready to slip into!

Coats of Varied Colors in Time for Easter

IN this selection of up-to-the-minute Coats you will find all the lovely Spring shades you have been hearing about, often in a harmonious two-toned combination. Louis Philippe and Cleopatra blue, pelican grey and maya brown are among the favorites in models of silk and wool. Some are very sleek and severe; others rich with embroidery and collared with Hindu fox, and lock-squirrel, dyed in contrasting shades. Price range $49.50 to $85.00.

Topcoats With a Swagger Swing

A RIGHT Coat for travel, a business or play is a rather short, rather light and immensely fashionable Topcoat. It may have a scarf that flatters while it keeps one warm. It may be horizontally striped or boldly plaided. But it must be one of these—they lead in style. $19.75 upward.

The Suit is Fashion-right for the Easter Promenade

The time-honored custom of buying one's new Suit before Easter is a sensible one, for then it is ready in ample time for all the Suit occasions that Spring brings. You will find choosing is a special pleasure this year, for Suits are so smart and varied. If your selection is made from these models you may be sure it is a mannish tailor, a boyish two-piece Suit, or an elaborate costume of fine twills. Price range—$25.00 to $95.00.

Sweaters Match the Colorful Days of Spring

Now you can blossom forth in the brightness of a new sweater. And nothing can make or mar one's reputation for smartness quite so easily. There is an opportunity to select several for your summer wardrobe, in lovely, soft colorings and a variety of models. The new cricket neck, Tuxedo or unusual slip-ons await your choosing, in wools, silks and "glos." Prices $3.95, $6.95 to $16.50.

NEW MINE RATINGS TO BE CONSIDERED BY COMMERCE BODY

At Hearing Before Commissioner Aitchison, Washington, on April 23.

WILL DISCUSS NEW CODE

WASHINGTON, Apr. 11.—A hearing will be held before Commissioner Aitchison of the Interstate Commerce Commission on Wednesday, April 23, on proposed new rules to govern the ratings of bituminous coal mines.

This hearing is a step in the proceedings instituted by the commission which on June 17, 1922, began a general investigation of the subject of mine ratings. Extensive hearings were had in the matter concerning which the commission has issued the statement which follows in part:

"An agreement was reached whereby the carriers would undertake to rate the mines through a mine-rating or inspection bureau, the members of which should be exclusively in the employ of the railway company. The principal factors used in determining the mine ratings were likewise agreed to. These factors included: (1) Physical conditions, (2) past performance, (3) labor supply, and (4) other factors that may affect the production and shipment of coal.

"The commission informally approved a fair trial of the code proposed as a result of the agreement reached after the conference. The carriers accordingly promulgated new mine rating and car distribution rules, effective as of March 1, 1923, which have been maintained since that time.

"To encourage the off-season delivery and storage of bituminous coal, the United States Coal Commission in its report dated September 20, 1923, recommended that this commission allow the commercial ability to sell coal the year round to be the controlling influence in the distribution of railroad cars in months of transportation shortage. The principle suggested is not the controlling element in the distribution rules now in effect.

"The suggestion has been made to the commission that the principle embodied in the Coal Commission's report and embodied in the proposed code of rules adopted would be legal and serviceable. The parties are invited to develop this phase of the case upon the record."

The proposed code embodying the rules recommended by the Coal Commission follows:

"(1) Whenever the supply of coal is inadequate to fill all mines within the limit of their physical capacity, distribution of such cars at mines shall be made upon the basis of mine ratings determined as hereinafter set forth.

"(2) Mine ratings used as the basis of coal car distribution shall be fixed as a combination of two factors—physical capacity and commercial capacity—giving equal weight to each.

"(3) Physical capacity of mines shall be determined in accord with present methods, and expressed in terms of the number of equivalent 50-ton cars per working day. For the purpose of combining physical capacity and commercial capacity to fix mine ratings, the physical capacity shall be deemed to represent 100 per cent in terms of percentage, and that given used in the manner set forth below.

"(4) Commercial capacity shall be determined by:

"(a) Determine the actual number of equivalent 50-ton cars loaded and shipped per calendar day, not including Sundays, during the last period of not less than two months during which the number of available cars was in excess of the number ordered by all mines within the limit of their physical capacity. If the last such period of car surplus exceeds six calendar months, only the last six months of the period shall be used in determining the average. Full consecutive days in excess of one full day lost by a mine by reason of accident, strikes or railroad failure during the period used, shall be deducted in arriving at the average, when the mine throughout the calendar month in which the failure occurred loaded and shipped its full physical capacity on every working day that cars were furnished and the mine was not prevented from loading by accident or strike, but if a mine failed to load and ship on all days when it was not prevented by reasons enumerated, the number of days on which it failed will be subtracted from the number of full consecutive days in excess of full day lost by reasons enumerated, and allowance made for the remainder only.

"(b) The commercial capacity in average cars per working day determined as prescribed in sub-paragraph (a) shall be compared with the average physical capacity, in cars, for the same number of days and period of time, to determine percentage ratio of commercial capacity to physical capacity during the surplus period used.

"(5) To 100 per cent representing ratio of physical capacity, add the percentage arrived at under paragraph 4, representing commercial capacity, and divide the result by 2.

"(6) To the current physical capacity, expressed in cars, apply the percentage arrived at under paragraph 5, and the result will be a current mine rating in equivalent ton cars.

"(7) Mines should be permitted to order cars up to the limit of their physical capacity. The distribution, however, should be made among mines in proportion to their mine rating, as arrived at under paragraph 6, or their order if less than mine rating under paragraph 6. If during any monthly period of distribution any mine or mines shall be unable to load its or their proportion of the available cars, the average shall be distributable among the remaining mines in proportion to their mine rating, or order if less than rating.

"(8) In the absence of special provision the commercial capacity of a mine not in operation during the last period of car surplus would, in terms of percentage be expressed as 0 per cent. Adding this percentage factor to 100 per cent, representing physical capacity, and dividing by 2, would give a resulting percentage factor of 50 to be applied to current physical capacity for determining the mine rating. In other words, the minimum mine rating for any mine would be 50 per cent of the current physical capacity.

In June, 1924, Esther Ward, a popular stenographer in the Illinois Assembly, disappeared from Springfield. The lawnmakers, with whom she was popular, instituted a nation-wide search for her, and her case became as mysterious as the disappearance of Dorothy Arnold in New York City. During that ten years the girl, who desired independence, has been a stenographer, chorus girl, cabaret singer and paid entertainer. At Hollywood, Cal., she was found in a cabaret by a producer, who contracted with her at once to star in the pictures. A few days ago relatives who had given her up for dead saw a motion picture in which the star was Esther Ward, and instantly recognized the long-lost Esther Ward.

Where a Calico Strip Makes a Woman's Dress

Human nature is not more unchanging than the dress modes affected by the African native. Let him who gives at modern civilized woman's predilection for short skirts and bare arms and shoulders put this in his pipe and smoke it! In Africa the most moral people generally are those who wear the least clothing, says Major Hume in the London Mail. Until quite recently the Kafir of Kenya colony wore no clothes at all. But at length the government has waded forth that this practice, or nonpractice, must cease. Then each woman obediently purchased herself a length of calico, that was worn shawl-like, and that only when a government officer was in the vicinity.

But the people who do wear clothes are most conservative in their tastes. The cloth, or robes, must always be the same length, the same breadth and of the same material.

No underclothes are worn, so that an African husband is not called upon to meet very high lingerie bills contracted by his wife. As for stockings, silk or otherwise, tribal women do not wear them.

An African woman will take a dozen yards of calico, knot it over one shoulder and, with a few deft turns and twists, stand arrayed in the most chic and becoming costume. Not a pin or stitch is used to connect the whole, which is a work of art.

All over Africa there is an unlimited demand for calico, bleached and unbleached. Manchester generally supplies the former, which is called, on the east coast, Mombasa cloth, or Boffan, and is worn by the better class of natives; poorer natives purchase a length occasionally to wear on gala occasions.

Although Japan and India are minor competitors, America has practically a monopoly of trade all through the dark continent in the latter. It is universally known as American.

Millions and millions of yards of American are imported annually into the African mandated areas and crown colonies.

Track Meet Will Be Held At Dawson on May 10; One Change in Scoring Rules

First Place Will Count Five Instead of Four; Must Enter by May 1.

WILL SUPPORT TENNIS

A meeting of the Fayette County Intercollegiate Athletic Association was held last night in the Uniontown Y. M. C. A. There were approximately 75 representatives from the schools of the county present. Plans for a track and tennis season, which are rapidly approaching were made.

The Uniontown Township High School was awarded a silver basketball emblem of the county championship. Perry Township High School received a silver loving cup as champions of Group Three and runner-up for the championship.

The track committee reported that Saturday, May 10, had been selected as the date for the county track meet, to be held at the Dawson Driving Park. One change in the rules gives five points to first place winners, three to second place, two to third and one to fourth place. The entrance of these schools in any event will legalize that event. Each school may enter six students in one event, with four to participate, to be selected on the day of the meet. Entries must be in the hands of H. D. Smith, superintendent of the Conneltsville schools, by May 1. Tennis will be supported by 11 schools of the county, including Conneltsville. Uniontown has not made its position on this clear, not being represented last night.

John S. Curran, county superintendent of schools, endorsed the work being done by the athletic association.

The addition of tennis to the activities of the high schools is interesting to a lot of boys. Conneltsville may be able to show something in this branch. While there is no means of determining just what other high schools have in the way of players of tennis, which is over increasing its popularity, the school have some material that seems promising and development of the new branch of athletics will be interesting.

It is about time for the basketball season to be getting organized. As soon as the city junior basketball championship is finally determined, the boys on the South Side will be able to give their attention to the national pastime.

Junior Championship Of City Lies Between Zenith and Crescents

At the State Armory tonight the Crescent Five and the Zenith Five will clash for the junior championship of Conneltsville. The teams have eliminated all others and are now ready to play the final.

The Junior championship has aroused considerable interest. The members of the competing teams are all of legitimate "junior" age and some of them are players of considerable ability for "kids." The teams have been playing preliminary games in many events all season and to the fans are rather well known.

The Crescents are possibly the best known, having a better publicity system than most of the amateur squads, and making it a point to get into print consistently.

The two teams that battle tonight will put up some interesting basketball. It will be anything but tiresome and as there is a championship in store for the winner it will bring forth the best in each man.

Basketball Banquet At Leisenring Hall Off Till Next Week

The basketball banquet planned for Saturday, April 13, at the Frick Hall at Leisenring for the Dunbar Township High School basketball team, both boys and girls, has been postponed until next week. Conflict with the opera that will be given two evenings, and a dance at Dawson this evening necessitated a hurried change. The date will be made known the earlier part of next week.

Of Interest to Fans.
With better outdoor conditions prevailing more regularly, greater opportunity for beneficial workouts is being given the track squad of the Conneltsville High School. Interest at present centers in the running events but there are others who will soon come into their own, including pole vaulters, discus throwers, and the jumpers.

Baseball managers are invited to become acquainted with The Courier and reports of all games will be welcomed. Score sheets are available at this office and all box scores correctly written up will be used.

The Rayen O. High School plays Uniontown tonight. It is to be the final game of the season.

LARGE AUDIENCE AT HIGH SCHOOL TO HEAR RHONDAS

A large and appreciative audience heard the Rhondas Welsh Male Glee Singers render their program last evening at the High School Auditorium, that more than pleased the audience. Opening the program at 8:30 o'clock, the chorus rendered "To Arms." Solo by W. Tudor Williams, tenor; Samuel Lazarus, tenor; Richard Owen, tenor; Robert Hopkins, baritone; Walter Evans, baritone; David Ross, bass-baritone; David Howells, bass, and a duet by Samuel Lazarus and Walter Evans were the leading parts of the program. "Italian Salad" by the chorus with W. T. Williams taking the leading role, proved to be the spice of the program. The program was closed by the chorus singing "How Wide By Shadow" (Land of My Fathers), Welsh national anthem, and one verse of "America."

The Rhondas Welsh Singers came from the Rhondas valley, after which the troupe is named, the coal mining district of Wales, and have been touring the United States for nearly two years. October 12, 1932, the troupe came to New York from Cuba, and there made a stay of 12 days. Since then numerous concerts have been given by the singers over the United States, making stops in the leading cities of the country. The troupe is on the last lap of its tour of this country, planning to leave New York for Southampton, Wales about May 17, expecting to be at the homes June 14. Fifteen members in the chorus, with Prof. Tom Morgan directing, and Prof. Mervyn Jones, A. R. G. U. M. accompanist, their tour was outlined by John Cosgrove.

CHARGES MADE AGAINST WAR DEPARTMENT.

THOMAS F. LATTA CAPTAIN W. F. VOLAND

Thomas F. Latta, legal advisor to the Chief of the U. S. Army Air Service, was removed from office because he attended a meeting of the Senate committee investigating the Attorney-General's office. On the witness stand Latta charged that aircraft companies had defrauded the Government of $50,000,000 without prosecution. He further showed that the departmental desk and brief case had been filled of papers dealing on these cases, by Captain W. F. Voland, his immediate superior. Voland testified he acted under orders and that he had turned the papers over to Secretary of War John W. Weeks, who was immediately subpoenaed to produce them before the committee.

Million and Half to Be Expended This Year On Roads of County

At a recent executive meeting of the Fayette county commissioners, a program of road building for the coming year was decided upon, which, with the state program, will cost in the neighborhood of $1,500,000. The county program alone calls for an expenditure of approximately $211,000 on the secondary roads in addition to a quarter of the cost of township roads, while the state program has announced calls for an expenditure of approximately $693,000.

In connection with the state program it was pointed out that the primary roads of the county are in all state propositions and will be constructed by the State. In the State program three miles of the National Pike extending from the county home to Rock, works will be constructed of concrete, 18 feet wide, necessitating an expenditure of approximately $150,000. Two miles of concrete road is to be constructed in Dunbar township from Hickory Bottom to Vanderbilt at an approximate cost of $35,000.

Hills for the construction of approximately $800 feet of concrete road extending from the city limits of Uniontown to the spurs more two on the Morgantown road at an approximate cost of $80,000 will be opened on April 23 by the Highway Department. In connection with this construction announcement was made that many of the dangerous curves on this stretch are to be eliminated.

Construction on the Smithfield mile and an eighth will begin possibly within the next 10 days. The cost of this will be $75,000.

Possibly the largest expenditure to be made in Fayette county is the construction of a concrete road from the city limits of Uniontown to the concrete on the new Connelville road. It is estimated that the Highway Department is considering establishing an overhead bridge at Housett's cut which will make the cost of this section approximately $700,000. However it has not been decided as to whether the bridge will be constructed, but it is understood that providing the cost is not too great at this time it will be.

Three miles of Route 253 extending from Oliver No. 2 through Phillips Vanues Mill to Stone Bridge on the Upper Middletown road will be constructed at a cost of between $50,000 and $60,000 a mile.

Eighty-eight hundred feet of road from a point in the center of Perryopolis to the improved road into Fayette City continuing through the three miles through State function will be constructed while two miles to Redstone township on Route 12 from the improved road at the Hoover and Moore distillery to Tower Hill at the Furnace township line will also be constructed.

Using Route 366 from Hevville to Uniontown the commissioners will construct another mile, expressing the hope that the State will construct in addition two miles to equalize the already constructed by the county. On the 15th of May the State and county equal in the full improvement of this road.

The last part of the program calls for the construction of state-aid township roads at which one-half the cost will be paid by the State, a quarter by the county and the remaining quarter by the township calling for an expenditure of approximately $100,000.

First preference according to the commissioners' report will be in Nicholson township where two and a quarter miles extending from the German township line through Martin and New Geneva will be constructed. Second preference will be in Furnace township, where 6,500 feet will be constructed from the improved road at Heisterburg to Fuchs.

In Connelville township seven-eighths of a mile will be constructed from the Davidson Coke works at the Connelville borough line to the improved road at Broad Ford. In Bull Run and Upper Tyrone townships two miles will be constructed from the brick road leading from Pennsylvania through Pittsford, Kloterova and Kingsley to Scottville.

The program as decided upon by the commissioners does not include the construction of the Masonova bridge. The commissioners hope to have all or at least the majority of the new construction under way in the near future and it may come that the majority will be completed before next winter sets in.

"AFTER A MILLION"—With Kenneth McDonald in the title role, is the feature picture today and Saturday at the Paramount.
Count Orloff, a Russian nobleman, was assailed by the Red revolutionists while celebrating his wedding, and his bride was shot by the Cossacks. Orloff made his way to America, where he amassed fabulous wealth. So great was his hatred for the revolutionists that he swore never to leave one cent of his fortune to Russia. When death approached, he willed his all to a young American nephew, Gregory Blaxin, providing he wed Princess Olga, a niece in Switzerland, within one year. If he failed, the fortune was willed to Olga, providing she wed an American citizen within a year. Ivan Soltau, secretary to Orloff, conspired to have Olga go through a mock ceremony with a hired groom and then get possession of the fortune. He had framed with the attorneys to delay "notifying Maria of the will until one hour before the time limit." When Gregory was finally notified, he set out to find his bride-to-be. He was kidnaped by some of Ivan's henchmen who didn't know his identity, and forced him to marry Olga, whom they had summoned to America from Switzerland. Unknowningly they had complied with the requirements of the will.
How Olga, the bride, was then kidnaped, and how Gregory rescued her, unfolds one of the most enthralling stories ever told on the screen.

The Soisson

"LITTLE JOHNNY JONES"—On view today and tomorrow at the Soisson, presents Johnny Hines in one of the best roles of his screen career.

It is seldom that a picture-tale, one such fine calibre comes to town, one with three such starting points. It is a story of a boy who grows up to be a great actor, playwright and actor. George M. Cohan's play, and last but not least, the play itself, a Warner Brothers classic of the screen.

There is more intrigue, plot and thrills in "Little Johnny Jones" than can be found in a half-dozen similar plays—everywhere it bears the unmistakable stamp of the great producer, playwright and actor, George M. Cohan, possessing all the attributes commonly coupled with his name; scintillating comic situations, new twists and vibrant drama.
The story is about Johnny Jones, an American boy who never fails to bring his horse first to the winning line. He comes to England to win the Derby and a bride at the same time. Robert Ames, a professional gambler out to get the race by fair means or foul, decides to woo Johnny Jones' sweetheart by maligning the character of his rival. And he proves marvellously cunning in his schemes. It would be unfair to give away the startling plot to you and thus rob you of several hours suspense; we need only hint that it is extraordinarily strong and arresting.
Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, "A Day of Faith" will be shown.

Hard Work Done the Easy Way

American invention and enterprise have done much to take the hard toll and drudgery out of house work, as well as to provide many conveniences that add to the comfort and happiness of the home. Most all the hard tasks of housekeeping can be avoided or made far less arduous by modern appliances. To lighten the burden is to provide more opportunity for enjoying life.

Here are only a few of the items that are now almost indispensable in many homes:

Vacuum Sweepers
Washing Machines—Electric or Water Power
Electric Irons
Gas Ranges
Sewing Machines—with or without motor
Bread Mixers
Fireless Cookers
Kitchen Cabinets
Modern Stoves
A host of kitchen and household utensils

Our stores can supply anything in the above lines. Ask one of our salesmen about them. The cost of this modern equipment, we believe, is less than you realize.

Rock Dust as Preventive of Mine Explosions in Europe and America

Explosions of coal dust such as have caused a toll of hundreds of lives in American mines within the past few months can be greatly minimized by proper rock dusting methods, states the Department of the Interior, which recently commissioned George S. Rice, chief mining engineer of the Bureau of Mines, to make a study of the use of these methods to prevent the propagation of coal dust explosions in European mines. The rock dust is spread upon the floor, roof and sides of passages, ways or placed upon specially constructed barriers, and when stirred up by the concussion of a local explosion, forms a screen which prevents the flame of the explosion from propagating beyond the immediate area of origin.

Stone dusting as a means of limiting coal dust explosions is made compulsory by governmental regulation in Great Britain, except in anthracite mines and in bituminous mines that are naturally wet throughout. A great many British mines of large capacity have used rock dust for more than ten years. The majority of British miners for the past four years, and practically all mines for the last two years have been using stone dust. No coal-dust explosions have occurred or have been propagated in any part of a mine that has been thoroughly stone dusted, whereas there have been a number of explosion disasters in recent years in British mines where the coal-dust watering method was practiced over certain parts of mines which were supposed to be so wet naturally that they did not need stone dusting. In France, the scene in 1906 of the greatest of all coal mine explosions, the Courrières disaster, which killed 1,400 men, the practice of rock dusting prevails in certain districts, and French officials are urging a wider use of rock dusting in the more dangerous mines.

Although the Bureau of Mines has recently recommended rock dusting only to few operators in the United States, have adopted the practice. Operators of mines in southern Illinois that have installed rock dust barriers state that these have prevented many coal dust explosions from extending beyond the location of the barrier. Other operators of mines where disastrous coal dust explosions have occurred, in spite of precautions taken to keep coal dust thoroughly dampened, are now considering the adoption of rock dusting.

Great Britain in 1908, and France in 1907, after the terrible Courrières explosion, began to make coal-dust explosion tests. Investigators in these countries concluded that enough combustible dust spread through a passageway charged with coal dust prevented the propagation of an explosion by the coal dust. Rock dusting was early tested with success by the Bureau of Mines in a steel testing battery at Pittsburgh and, beginning in 1911, at the bureau's experimental coal mine at Princeton, Pa. Several of the first publications of the bureau suggested that rock dust be used in sections or dusty bituminous mines. Since that time additional tests in the experimental mine have fully confirmed this first judgment.

For three years—1918, 1919, and 1920—the United States was comparatively free from disastrous explosions in bituminous coal and lignite mines. In these three years, 11, 51, and 47 mines, respectively, died in explosions that killed five or more men, as contrasted with the years 1901-1910, in which an average of 330 men were killed annually. This good record tended to prevent mining men from seriously questioning the effectiveness of coal-dust watering methods as generally practiced under careful management in naturally dry bituminous and lignite mines. Between January 1, 1918, and December 31, 1923, however, there occurred 19 explosions, in 18 of which coal dust was considered to be the propagating or contributing agent; and in these explosions 630 lives were lost. Already in 1924, at Johnson City, Illinois; Shanksville, Pa.; and Castleton, Utah, mine explosions have cost more than 200 lives.

The fact that the watering method was either used or supposed to have been used in these mines has convinced engineers of the Bureau of Mines that the watering method is not reliable, and that the comparative immunity from disasters during the three years just mentioned was partly due to good luck, since a combination of circumstances is necessary to produce a dust explosion, and partly to better methods of preventing the ignition of gas and coal dust through the adoption of permissible explosives, permissible miners' lights, and other approved appliances. American miners have heretofore relied on watering and the prevention of ignition to avoid coal-dust explosions. Although it is agreed that watering is successful if done with absolute thoroughness, engineers of the Bureau of Mines have rarely, if done that it is a source of ignition was present in imperfectly watered parts of the mine a coal-dust explosion would not follow. This conclusion does not apply to Pennsylvania or to Illinois mines, the dust of which has not been found to be explosive, but does apply to all bituminous, semi-bituminous, and subbituminous coal mines. Especially in the cold dry months, watering is effective for only a short time after it has been done because the air current rapidly dries the coal dust.

Tests in the experimental mine of the Bureau of Mines have shown that, even with 25 per cent of water, a pure fine coal dust will propagate an explosion. Were witnesses of the floor or sides will not be enough to halt an explosion were it on the timbers, in the overhead cavities, or on ledges there is coal dust which may be dislodged by the concussion that precedes the flame. To keep long haulage roads and old workings thoroughly wet all the time is difficult because of the rapidity with which moisture evaporates. Moreover, it is difficult to wet fresh coal dust. When undisturbed, coal dust will float so thickly on water for long periods that the top layer may be fanned into the air. The bureau's investigators constantly find evidence of an explosion that the explosion traversed not only wet places but those where the water was deep in the roadway. Not only is the dust overhead, on timbers or adhering to the walls, dislodged and ignited, but there is excess dust at some place it is carried along by "pioneering" air waves and feeds the flame of the explosion.

The difficulty of finding employees who will water a mine thoroughly and conscientiously may nullify the best of "witness" of the management. One of the greatest American coal-dust explosion disasters was attributed by the state inspector to failure to water the mine on a holiday that preceded the explosion.

One of the greatest advantages of rock dusting is that failure or delay to apply the dust for a day or a few days is not so vital as the omission of watering. Many roadways do not have to be redusted more often than once or two times per month under adverse dust conditions. Other parts of the mine may not need redusting for months. The condition of the roadways can be largely determined by inspection. If limestone dust is used, and checked positively by the gathering of samples, this applies not only to inspection from day to day, by the management, but also to the more occasional state inspection. For example, a state inspector may find the condition of a watered mine admirable as far as coal dust is concerned on the day of inspection, but he can not tell whether the mine will be safe the next day. Usually a month or more will elapse before he makes another inspection of that particular mine. Meantime the effectiveness of the watering can not be positively checked in the same way that samples of dust gathered and tested by the management can be made a matter of daily record.

The cost of rock dusting in American mines per ton of coal produced is believed to be much less than that of efficient watering. This small cost is a low price for protecting human lives and for insurance against disasters that involve heavy financial losses from the payment of death and injury benefits through damage to property.

Most of the British collieries use shale dust, made by grinding rough shale from the mine or from some neighboring mine. Limestone dust is used to some extent and a few collieries use gypsum dust. Most mines in the north of France use chalk dust, others use clay. The British regulations prohibit the use of any character of stone dust that would be injurious to the health of persons working in the mine. No reports of serious effects on health from stone dusting have been received from collieries that have used it eight or ten years. In many American coal mines the limestone rock material is not generally so suitable for stone dusting purposes as that in the mines of Great Britain. When there is a question as to the effect of a specified dust on health, samples should be submitted to a petrographer or to the Bureau of Mines. When a shale suitable for dusting cannot be found, it will usually be possible in most American coal fields to purchase dust from limestone, dolomite, or hydrite or gypsum quarries at a reasonable figure. Such materials are usually free from silica.

Results of these investigations are contained in Bulletin 225, copies of which may be obtained from Department of the Interior, Bureau of Mines, Washington, D. C.

Over Half of Mines in Central Pa. Idle

At the present time in Central Pennsylvania there are approximately 550 little mines completely idle, out of a total number of 1,000. These mines represent about 50 per cent of the productive capacity of the district or, roughly speaking, 2,500 carloads per day and employ about 30,000 men. Of these 30,000 men a number have gone to work in other unions in the district; some have gone to work in other occupations, and still others have gone to work in mines operating in the non-union sections of Pennsylvania.

It is conservatively estimated that of the 30,000 men formerly working in the mines that are now totally idle, about 12,000 of them have found work as indicated. This would leave 18,000 idle miners now in the district. The mines that are at work, generally speaking, are working from two to three days per week. Their production per day has been increased by shorter running times, and by the additional men secured from the mines that are totally idle. The working time of the regular employees in mines still at work is being constantly decreased.

New By-Product Plants. Now by-product coke plants to be built this year include 110 ovens for the By-Product Coke Corporation of Chicago and 15 ovens for the Northern Indiana Gas & Electric Company, Fort Wayne, Ind. Additions are to be made to the plant of the Chicago By-Product Coke Company which will increase its capacity by 20,000,000 cubic feet of gas to 65,000,000 cubic feet a day.

Prehistoric Man in Asia 500,000 Years Ago

The evidence of prehistoric man in northern Asia so far obtained by the Roy Chapman Andrews expedition consists of a collection of bones which is now on its way to America.
"It has not been established how old they are, but from a report I have received from our paleontologist I am of the opinion that they are about half a million years old, or about the same age as the Pithecanthropus Erectus," Mr. Andrews said in a recent visit to Columbus, O., according to the Ohio State Journal. "They are highly important to science, no matter how old they are, because they constitute the first evidence of the existence of prehistoric man in that portion of the world."

The expedition, conducted under the auspices of the American Museum of Natural History, Asia Magazine and a group of New York philanthropists, has produced more than ten thousand fish, reptiles and batrachians, some fifty cases of fossils and about two thousand mammalia, including a fossilized skull of a belchithidium, a sort of glorified rhinoceros, the largest mammal that ever roamed the earth.

Madrid Now Has a Curfew

Madrid has always been a city of night life. How many are those writers who have described nocturnal ramblings through its cafes and taverns where all classes mingle.
Now, however, the curfew rings at three o'clock in the morning and the police have been instructed to see to it that no establishment remains open after that late-or early-hour. This is an economic measure, as the cost of lighting is too high in a land where coal is scarce.
At three o'clock, therefore, all the cafes in Madrid must cease their drumming and the adepts of the night life are obliged to leave their haunts for a few hours—La Figura, Paris.

Electric "Sun" for Crops

Two crops of lettuce have been made to grow in the time only one grows before, by the use of electric lights as an artificial sun, according to the International Institute of Agriculture. Five electric bulbs of considerable power were turned on a bed of lettuce daily for six hours after dark. The lettuce so treated had, after only twelve days, approximately two and a half times as many fresh leaves as other heads which had been planted at the same time but which had not been exposed to the electric light.

Pittsburg Has Six Highland Avenues

By United Press.
PITTSBURG, April 12.—If you are in Pittsburg and looking for a certain number on Highland avenue and find it, then learn the party you want doesn't live at that address, don't be discouraged.
There are seven different Highland avenues in the city and you have six more chances to locate your party. And that is one of the reasons so much mail goes astray here, according to Postmaster Gosser, who has asked city council to rename many streets so as to avoid confusion.
"We have just completed a list of 20 closely typewritten pages of names of streets, all of which are duplications," Gosser told council. Council has promised action.

"No," responded old Festus Pester. "I saw him at the motor show, making an use of himself; running true to form, as usual."

Completes 35 Years' Service for Uncle Sam

Rush D. Simmons started at the bottom of the Post Office department ladder in Washington 35 years ago. He has worked in almost every branch of the department and today holds the position of chief inspector.

Touching Incident at Evacuation of Smyrna

In all (the Smyrna evacuation) the terrible, the terrible, the horrors, and the touching were strangely intermingled. One incident is typical of the brighter side.

I was busy one day getting the crowd through the gate and onto the pier, when a woman with a small child became separated from one without nothing that she had lost him, the little chap of three or four years being pushed, kicked and in danger of being rushed to death as many—yes, many of all ages—had been in that place, so dense was the terrible mass fighting their way toward safety on board the vessels.

A Turkish soldier saw him, dropped the rifle, pushed his way through the crowd, protecting the child with his own body, until he had saved him and rested him to his mother.

When the soldier came back, I ruled and parted him on the back to express approval. My linguistic shortcomings made it impossible to be more explicit, but the "Dad" had no need of English words. The word through an extraordinary pantomime that made me speech quite needless. He held his hand at the height of a little child's head and opened two fingers, pointing first to him and then back toward the country lying to the east, then, his hand on his heart, he shook his head.

This touching was perfectly new; he had—or, perhaps—once had a two children of about the age of the child he had saved.

Such is the terrible Turk—such, at least, is one side of him I saw—black or, perhaps, in the Atlantic, already.

Englishman Tells How to Break Monte Carlo

Monte Carlo Robert Beresford, brother of Lord Deedes, is the author of a book of 60 pages, only one-third of an inch thick. The price is 21 shillings, which is at the rate of 10 shillings an inch, remarks the London Times.

The title is, "The Future of Monte Carlo: A Method Explained whereby the Bank Must Fail."

"The intention," he writes, "is not to put forward a new system in opposition to the bank, but to invert all that has gone before insofar as to compel the bank to take the place of the system manager."

He shows how a number of players, working in concert, may force the bank to play one of the famous systems, such as that devised by Labouchere.

"The Beresford system," he declares, "may be played by people with as little as $20 or $40 apiece, for with so small a reserve many would lose their all; a few, however, would lose their all heavily. . . . One solitary winner could easily win an amount in excess of the losses of the others." He claims that if every man followed the Beresford method, Monte Carlo would be out of business in six months.

Mon. S. R. Beresford is manager of two shipping associations and a famous swimmer and trap shooter. He lives in New York and London and has played cricket for Middlesex.

What He Asked For

Huggins considered himself a very smart fellow—distinctly witty, in fact—and he never lost an opportunity of using what he called his "gift."

One day he was strolling down High street when he saw a notice in a shop window, which ran: "If you don't see what you want in the window come inside."

"I don't see what I want in the window," he said.

"Well, then, ask for it," said the shopkeeper.

"Well," went on the wit, "I have found so many smart men in this town that I am in search of a first-class idiot."

Without hesitation the proprietor turned to his assistant with the order: "James, bring a large sheet of paper and some string, and make this gentleman up into a neat parcel."

Great Remodeling and Expansion Sale

We are moving our Hardware Department in the store room now occupied by the American Railway Express Co. Our present store will be remodeled completely and our Furniture Department moved in it, where we will handle a line of furniture second to none. In order to save moving expense, also save our goods from destruction, we will move them direct to your home, and give you all the benefits. A saving from 25% to 40% on all stock on hand. SALE STARTS APRIL 10TH and Lasts Until Everything is Sold. Profits no consideration. We must move the goods. Just a few articles and prices mentioned as it is next to impossible to enumerate them all.

Daily Fashion Hints

BROWN VELVET BANDS distinguish this coat of natural camel hair cloth that is light enough in weight for spring and early summer. Wide armholes and sleeves make it an ideal wrap to wear over light frocks. It is lined with tan satin. The little hat is of tan suede bound and bandied with brown leather and backed with pickle.
